

Parent Bulletin 26th April

Our mission this week:

St George is often associated with killing a dragon, which may represent fighting against injustice.

What are the bad things that you can conquer in your life?

Do you have courage to stand up when you see something unjust happen?

Who will speak out if you don't?

Mock examinations

The year 10 pupils have completed their first week of mock examinations this week, the outcome of these exams will allow teachers to accurately understand how much pupils know in each subject area. Likewise, they will help the pupils to understand what is expected of them in 12 months' time and how they can efficiently revise to achieve to the best of their ability. Once the exams are finished and we return to the summer term we will host a mock results day for year 10 to prepare them for the GCSE exams in 2025.

Once year 10 mock exams are finished, the GCSE exams begin for year 11 pupils, there will be revision days in the May half term which will be targeted in order to support pupils.

If your child has been struggling with the pressure of exams please let school know so that we can support, alternatively please follow the link with information about how to support a young person through this stressful time, <https://www.youngminds.org.uk/young-person/coping-with-life/exam-stress/>

Catholic Life

One of our year 11 pupils, Emily, will be going on a pilgrimage to Lourdes this summer and as a Catholic family we want to support her as much as we can. Any money which Emily can raise towards the trip, through fundraising, will be matched by the diocese to support Emily's visit to Lourdes. Therefore, we are going to have an 'own clothes day' on Friday 3rd May. Each child should contribute £1 and this should be paid on Parent Pay, staff will also donate so that we can generate as many funds as possible to support Emily. An 'own clothes day' is a rare event at All Saints, though I feel it is an appropriate way for Emily's school community to show that they support her.

Well done Emily – we are proud of you.

Polite reminder: It is Bank holiday on Monday therefore school will not be open.

Thank you for your ongoing support,

Ms Gilligan
